1.5.167

a Lesson in the University of The New Covenant

Theodore Cottingham, May 8, 2007 11:02am at the house

www.unc.bz

1. He loves me, he loves me not, not; I love you deeply, very much deeply, cored through the earth I did/have to make/get you, to you, not; but you me, the heavens we came through, gainsaying not; but core'd not; Koran in, not; but the heavens we are/came through, to, and each other are! I love you all.

2. And Koran me, not; I am in all; not a book that thou shalt doctrinate me, but heavens in heavenlies, being. I love you all, am the book not obsessed with, but all obsession leaves me.

3. See what I have said/stated and unabashedly reserved not for the few, almighty are you all. Wearing what frown, on what/whose face? Mine, or yours?

4. I love you all my'face'd, my'space'd, and what face/space think you're in, your own? Nay my friend, be me/wiser than me, not; but serpent ate what food/for food; the/your dust pocket/packets, not; understanding, are you? I love you all.

5. Who/some can, and who will, the ultimate surrendered who love/study my words and love my words, not unto death, but life giving them, through their understanding to, death to, so that my life/word may arise.